

First & foremost

Liquitabs may look like sweets, toys or teething products to small children. Poisons are highly toxic and cause severe damage if they are ingested or they splash and come into contact with the eyes.

Some of the most serious accidents happen in the home, and particularly in the kitchen as there are a variety of products which pose a risk to young children, and as such parents and other responsible adults should ensure that these are securely stored out of the reach of toddlers and young children.

Carole Hewison 2016

First & Foremost Safety